THE DRAMA “LOVE

Jimmy Hawkins is a filmmaker who believes that people are capable of extraordinary achievements. He produced biopics about Satchel Paige, first black to play in a major baseball league; Mother Seton, first native American to attain sainthood; and Evel Knievel, the famous motorcycle daredevil. This is how his dedication to another true story grew into a two-hour movie on your Disney Channel.

Hawkins was handed the autobiography of Morris Frank at a family gathering four years ago. Frank, a young Nashville athlete, was blinded by an accidental knockout punch from a careless opponent during a practice boxing match in 1927. He refused to be hindered by a cane. He went to Switzerland and brought home the first Seeing Eye dog.

Happy ending? No, it's really just the beginning of an inspiring story about a brave, dauntless man who, for the rest of his life, would fight to make society sympathetic to the special needs of the blind.

“Frank confided to a schoolmate at their 50th class reunion that if he hadn't been blinded, he never would have been the useful human being he turned out to be,” Hawkins says. “Being blinded gave him a mission in life. It fulfilled his destiny.

“I read his book and realized that this man's life was meant to be put on film. I felt dedicated to produce it.” What Hawkins did not know was that he was embarking on a crusade.

The book that became “Love Leads the Way” seemed to have everything in terms of heart, human interest and universal appeal. But it lacked sex and violence, as every studio that turned it down pointed out to Hawkins. Without those elements, so network executives said, the story didn't have a chance. For three years Hawkins persevered, determined to see his project through.

“Then came The Disney Channel,” he says, “and everything fell into place.”

By the time Hawkins submitted his story, the Channel was looking for filmable properties. After getting the green light, Hawkins signed the distinguished author Henry Denker to write the screenplay and Academy Award winner Delbert Mann to direct it.

BEHIND LEADS THE WAY

"Del, as it turned out, had a real feel for the story. Back in the 1950s he did a live TV show about blind people, and Morris Frank was on it," Hawkins says.

"We had the same wonderful luck with the cast. Each star divulged a personal reason for accepting the role. Timothy Bottoms, who plays Morris Frank, told us he was deeply affected by the integrity of the character and story. He's a dog lover—has six of his own on his ranch at Big Sur—and it was love then and there when he met the German shepherd that plays his dog guide. He fed her, played ball with her, and even let her sleep at the foot of his bed at night."

Academy Award winners Eva Marie Saint, Patricia Neal and Ernest Borgnine brought equal enthusiasm and devotion to their roles. Miss Saint plays Dorothy Eustis, who founded The Seeing Eye, Inc.; Miss Neal, Morris Frank's mother; and Borgnine, the senator who contends that "seeing is believing." Other stellar names include Ralph Bellamy, Arthur Hill, Glynnis

O'Connor and Susan Dey.

One co-star, however, was unable to express herself except through her performance. Pilot, a seven-year-old German shepherd, portrays Morris Frank's dog guide Buddy.

This exceptional dog was found by trainer Ron Bledsoe at the Wendy Way Kennels in Bowling Green, Kentucky. Pilot had recently arrived from Germany and responded well to commands—if they were given in German.

"'Stay' became 'blieb.' 'Heel' was 'fuss.' 'Down' was 'platz,'" Jimmy Hawkins says. "Ron had only two weeks to train her to act like a dog guide. She adapted quickly. She was a fast study."

"The picture covers an eight-year period and Pilot must age visibly," Hawkins continues, "so we reversed the usual procedure. Her snout was already beginning to turn white, so for earlier scenes Pilot had to go to makeup to have her white hairs darkened."

Two backup dogs, a two-year-old movie-trained male named Graf and a 17-month-old dog guide named Whimsy, were on hand to understudy Pilot.

"She really didn't need them," Hawkins says. "When they acted, it was usually to give our hard-working star a rest."

Location scenes in Nashville were completed without a hitch, thanks in great measure to director Mann who is co-chairman of the Tennessee Film Commission.

For sequences in the film that take place in Switzerland, Hawkins adds, he moved the company to the Swiss-style community of Leavenworth, Washington on the eastern slopes of the Cascade Mountains.

Looking back on his resolve to put "Love Leads the Way" on the screen, Hawkins sums it up in three sentences.

"It took four years to get started and, once we began shooting, six months to finish. I believed in it then and I believe in it now. It's a story that demands telling." ♥

THE WATCHER IN THE WOODS

Bette Davis, Carroll Baker,
David McCallum, Lynn-Holly Johnson

EXCLUSIVE

Bette Davis, as Mrs. Aylwood, plays the owner of a country house who tries to prevent a family of strangers from discovering the terrifying secret that haunts her

Don't look behind you! Is it just your imagination—or this time is there really someone there?

Seventeen-year-old Jan Curtis (Lynn-Holly Johnson) and her 10-year-old sister Ellie (Kyle Richards) are plunged into a terrifying mystery when their parents (David McCallum and Carroll Baker) rent a forbidding old house in an English forest. This gloomy world is dominated by the dark and brooding presence of Mrs. Aylwood (Bette Davis), who owns the house and lives a reclusive life in a nearby cottage.

When a series of eerie events menace the girls, they turn to their mysterious landlady for enlightenment. Who is the ghostly, blindfolded girl appearing in Jan's mirror? What unknown force lures Jan to a near death by drowning? Most frightening of all, who—or what—is watching from the woods? Jan and Ellie learn that only one thing will unlock Mrs. Aylwood's terrible secret.

Veteran of classic horror films, Bette Davis is an expert at creating an aura of mystery. Her screen career spans over 50 years and brought her two Oscars.

BETTE DAVIS: A FABULOUS ORIGINAL

If some inspired sculptor decided to chisel his version of Mt. Rushmore in the Hollywood Hills, it's a cinch he would include the famous face of Bette Davis.

No other actress has loomed larger or longer on the movie scene. Even without the sculptor, she is a monument.

At a time when most of her contemporaries are gone or retired, Miss Davis racks up show after show. "The Watcher in the Woods" is her 85th film. After completing it, she reported to TV for "Strangers—The Story of a Mother and Daughter" and "Right of Way." She'll be seen on The Disney Channel next month in "Return from Witch Mountain."

At 76, Miss Davis crackles with the intensity she has generated all her life, although she was felled last year by a combination of ailments. Still, she refuses to slow down. She plans to star in "Burning Bright," a screen adaptation of Henry James' "Aspern Papers."

"I believe in work," she says. "I think it is essential. Otherwise one's brain goes fallow."

WORLD PREMIERE!

"LOVE LEADS THE WAY"

Timothy Bottoms, Eva Marie Saint, Ralph Bellamy, Ernest Borgnine, Patricia Neal

When our programming staff read the script of "Love Leads the Way," we knew we had the opportunity to create more than "just another made for TV movie" (see page 2).

Every day we're reminded that The Disney Channel is our creative outlet to produce films in the great tradition of Walt

A cluster of stars, including producer Jimmy Hawkins (standing center) and director Delbert Mann (right)

Timothy Bottoms

Disney. That's a big task, and we believe that "Love Leads the Way" more than fills the bill.

For this motion picture we brought together an all-star cast, including three Oscar winners and the Academy Award-winning director Delbert Mann. Timothy Bottoms, Eva Marie Saint, Ralph Bellamy, Ernest Borgnine, Patricia Neal, Arthur Hill, Glynnis O'Connor and Susan Dey are among the actors who bring the characters to life.

We scouted locations in Nashville, Tennessee to ensure authenticity. Every step of the way we made sure that no detail was overlooked. We know there is no substitute for quality. We hope you'll agree that this motion picture is a unique achievement. This is the true story of Morris Frank—a man who "had it all"—then was robbed of his eyesight. His struggle for independence and fight for normalcy is centered on his successful teamwork with a Seeing Eye dog. A lot of pride went into its filming, and many of those involved had personal reasons for joining the project.

"I care about real-life heroes, and I was glad to play a woman who helped shape Morris Frank's future," says Eva Marie Saint.

"The theme of this film alone was enough to sell me," says Ernest Borgnine.

"I know about life-changing crises, I've been there, and I could identify with my role of Morris Frank's mother," says Patricia Neal.

"I directed Morris Frank on a television show several years ago," says Delbert Mann. "Knowing his story, I jumped at the chance to direct it for The Disney Channel."

Frank's frustrations and triumphs make "Love Leads the Way" an experience that should not be missed.

RETURNING BY POPULAR DEMAND!

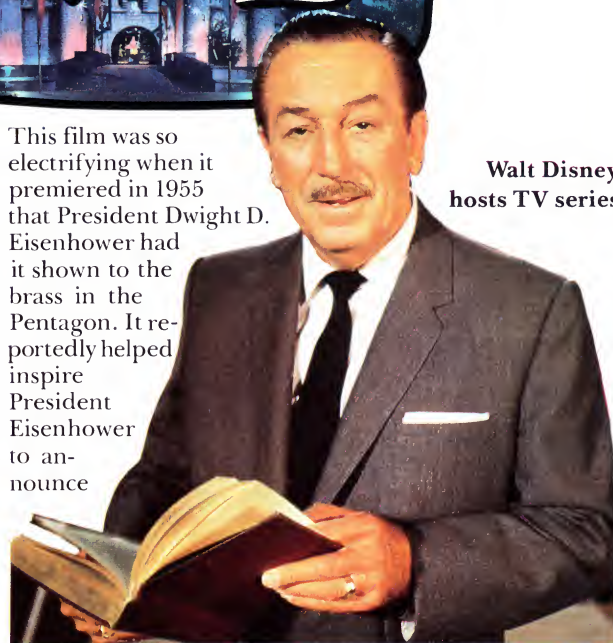

Many of you tell us how much you would like to see Walt Disney again. And so we are pleased to bring you a different show every Sunday evening (and repeating throughout the week thereafter) from the award-winning "Wonderful World of Disney" series. Many of them feature Walt as host, and some programs that were originally aired in black and white will be presented in color. They're back to refresh your memories of family gatherings 'round the TV set each Sunday evening, and to start a new tradition on The Disney Channel.

"Man in Space" leads the parade. Here we see the concept of space travel handled historically, realistically, and often humorously by three experts: scientist Wernher von Braun, writer Willy Ley and doctor Heinz Haber.

Pioneer astronaut surveys galaxy in "Man in Space"

This film was so electrifying when it premiered in 1955 that President Dwight D. Eisenhower had it shown to the brass in the Pentagon. It reportedly helped inspire President Eisenhower to announce America's imminent plans for launching an earth-circling satellite.

"Run, Light Buck, Run" follows the life of a pronghorn antelope from babyhood to maturity. The fawn's adventures begin when it is stranded and deserted in wild mesa country north of the Grand Canyon. Coyotes and bobcats are ever-present threats. Eventually Man, often an enemy, acts as a friend.

"The Great Cat Family" salutes felines through the ages. Their history begins around 2000 B.C., when cats were revered in ancient Egypt. During the Middle Ages cats helped stem the Plague by killing rats. They have figured in literature for centuries, and appear as storybook characters in scenes from "Cinderella," "Pinocchio" and other Disney films.

SERIES PREMIERE STRICTLY FOR LAUGHS!

Steve Allen himself came up with this idea for a Disney Channel series. "Laughter is always in short supply," he said. "Let's get some top bananas together and fill an hour with nothing but comedy." So here it is, folks — Steve Allen's Comedy Room, where funny people gather just for the howl of it.

In this opening show Steve introduces Sid Caesar, Shecky Greene, Mort Sahl, Bill Maher and Joe Baker.

Sid Caesar, as Steve notes, is to the history of television comedy what Charlie Chaplin was to film. Both set standards that are admired and emulated to this day. Going back to his old Show of Shows, Steve runs a TV clip of Caesar bringing down the house as a befuddled German professor.

Steve announces that his next guest, Shecky Greene, "began his career in Chicago 35 years ago and he's going to end it tonight." On the contrary, Greene demonstrates the comedic skill that's made him a headliner by performing one of his notable standup sketches.

Mort Sahl, whom Steve identifies as "The Thinking Man's Comedian," discusses political humor. He also bites the hand that feeds him by giving a sharp impersonation of Steve Allen in a clip from an old Sunday Night show.

Bill Maher, the "young whippersnapper" of Steve Allen's Music Room, returns as a featured comedian on this program. Joe Baker, a funnyman from Great Britain, serves as Steve's sidekick throughout the series.

NEW FRONTIER ADVENTURES

FIVE MILE CREEK

Louise Caire Clark, Rod Mullinar, Liz Burch, Michael Caton, Priscilla Weems, Martin Lewis, Gus Mercurio, with Jay Kerr as Con Madigan

Growing pains afflict our settlers of the Australian outback. In these two new self-contained episodes, the characters must learn to share responsibility and help each other grow, keystones of "family" life.

"Who's going to marry Mama?" is the question plaguing 10-year-old Hannah (Priscilla Weems) in "Matchmaker" (premiering October 3). When Maggie Scott (Louise Caire Clark) won't let her go to a boarding school, Hannah thinks her mother needs a husband and sets up both coach driver Jack Taylor (Rod Mullinar) and banker Charles Withers (Peter Carroll) as suitors. Meanwhile Kate Wallace (Liz Burch) is hoping she will be the first to wed.

The fall of the cards determines Kate's future in "Good Old Reliable Me" (beginning October 17). After her brother loses the deed to the waystation in a poker game, Kate refuses to work

Michael Young and guests

Michael Young and his co-hostesses take you to places you've dreamed of seeing — and some you never dreamed existed!

Starting at EPCOT Center, you're on your way to a moon condo via a story about space colonization. Then, get in over your head at the world's first underwater hotel.

For more typical trips, there's Mount Rushmore, where you'll meet a man who helped carve the giant stone portraits; and the Big Apple, where you'll share a day in the life of a New York cab driver.

The Family of Tipsters give you great ideas. And you can compare opinions with visitors at EPCOT Future Choice Theater on questions like "Should the U.S. government financially support our Olympic athletes?" (October 5).

THE ADVENTURES OF "ICHABOD AND MR. TOAD"

Disney Animated
Classic

Dare to face the hideous

Headless Horseman of Sleepy Hollow, who terrifies timid Ichabod Crane!

Ichabod is the skinny schoolmaster who rivals burly Brom Bones for the favors of winsome Katrina van Tassel, and runs afoul of the ghastly Headless Horseman one dark, fateful night.

Narrated by Bing Crosby and highlighted with music and songs, this animated version of Washington Irving's spooky tale is a Halloween chiller worth losing your head over!

For the second of these classic stories, race off with Mr. Toad, whose passion for speed, thrills and adventures gets him in all kinds of trouble. After an escapade with a pack of shifty weasels, he needs all the help he can get from his three best friends: Water Rat, Mole and Mac Badger.

Basil Rathbone narrates this animated comedy based on Kenneth Grahame's "Wind in the Willows."

Buddhist monks practice centuries-old rituals

THE EXPLORERS

"Thailand—The Land In Between"

The serene smile of a long-earlobed Buddha presides over Thailand, where 95 percent of the population is Buddhist, and the rituals of saffron-robed monks affect every aspect of life. These age-old traditions mingle with the new in this democracy caught "in between" the Communist nations of Viet-Nam, Laos, and Cambodia.

We move from water buffalos plowing the fields to a modernized railway system, from open-air village markets to Bangkok's towering skyscrapers, as this film explores all the colorful contrasts of what was once the mysterious kingdom of Siam.

Disney Family Album

MEET "THE LAURENCE OLIVIER OF ANIMATORS"

Milt Kahl

Inventing a convincing animated personality—one that will make audiences laugh, cry, boo, shiver or smile — takes more than just a knack with a pencil.

"Animators are really actors" asserts Milt Kahl, a chief animator at Walt Disney Studio for 42 years. Join him on the show as he recalls high points of his prolific career.

"We perform through our drawings, by imagining and then sketching every detail of dress, walk, facial expressions and gestures. We have to get into each role, just as an actor would, in order to make our characters believable."

Kahl has created a multitude of stars for Disney animated classics and cartoons. Film clips of his favorites highlight "Disney Family Album" this month.

You'll see Ferdinand the Bull, Pinocchio, Bambi, Princess Aurora and Madame Medusa, among others. Kahl's versatility at the drawing board led his colleagues to call him "the Olivier of animators."

"The secret of Disney animation is richness of character," Kahl says. And he's understandably proud of the creations he's added to the studio's Hall of Fame. But he's quick to make one thing absolutely clear: "We all worked together. Disney animation represents the dog-gonest achievement in cooperation you ever saw."

Forever Darling

Lucille Ball, Desi Arnaz,
James Mason

"Second honeymooners"
Lucille and Desi Arnaz

When Lucille Ball's fantasies about movie idol James Mason drive husband Desi Arnaz to the brink of divorce, Lucy's guardian angel appears as a Mason look-alike to help save the marriage. But can even divine guidance turn the couple's camping trip into a second honeymoon when Lucy is pitted against such foes as an inflatable boat and a jammed sleeping bag?

Today Lucy is best known as the star of "I Love Lucy," one of TV's most successful comedy shows. But her movie career started in the 1930s. A Goldwyn Girl in one of her first films, she took dozens of bit parts before gaining fame as Hollywood's foremost comedienne.

ESCAPE TO WITCH MOUNTAIN

Eddie Albert, Ray Milland,
Donald Pleasence, Kim Richards,
Ike Eisenmann

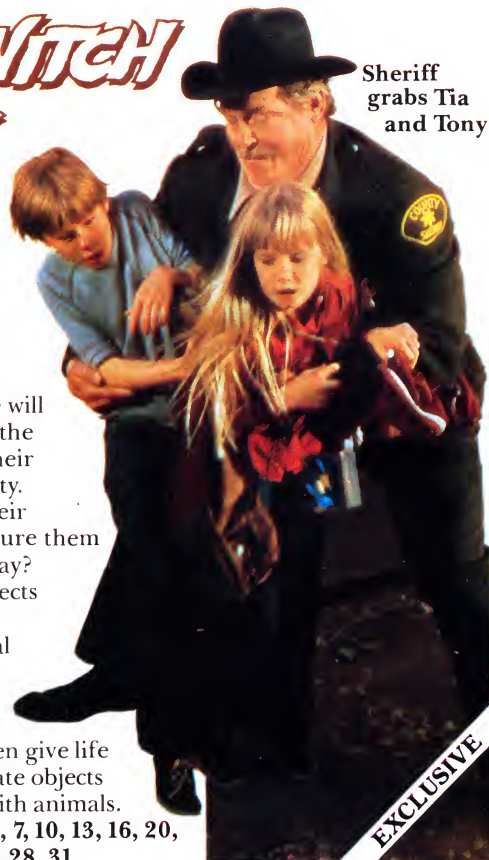

What if you could read minds, foresee the future, and levitate objects? You'd certainly be a hit at Halloween parties! But it might not be much fun if someone wanted to control your powers...and you!

Twelve-year-old Tony Malone (Ike Eisenmann) and his 10-year-old sister Tia (Kim Richards) are orphans with supernatural skills. Intending to exploit the gifted children, millionaire Aristotle Bolt (Ray Milland) imprisons them in his fortress-like castle.

Tony and Tia realize they must escape to mysterious

Witch Mountain. Only there will they learn the secret of their true identity. But can their powers assure them of a getaway? Special effects wizardry creates real magic on the screen as the children give life to inanimate objects and talk with animals.

Affectionate glacier foxes

THE GLACIER FOX

Narrated by Arthur Hill

This engrossing true-adventure feature lets you share a glacier fox family's life on Hokkaido island.

Flep and his mate Leila are the parents of five pups that must survive natural and man-made dangers. Seasonal rains weaken their sense of smell and hearing. Domesticated watchdogs find their den. When Flep robs a chicken coop, suspense enters their existence.

Naturalist photographers spent four years filming the life cycle of these beautiful wild foxes, now a vanishing species.

GUS

Edward Asner, Don Knotts, Gary Grimes, Tim Conway

No matter how many mule-headed players you spot this football season, you'll never see one who nails on his cleats and insists on playing with all four legs!

Unless, that is, you catch this comedy about Gus, a Yugoslavian mule who specializes in kicking 100-yard field goals.

When Hank Cooper (Ed Asner), owner of the woe-ful California Atoms, adds

Ed Asner and Don Knotts cheer Gary Grimes and Gus

Gus to the team, he starts the Atoms moving from the bottom of the League towards the Super Bowl.

But there are a couple of mulenappers afoot (Tim Conway, Tom Bosley), and it's up to Gus to give them the runaround...

Costuming the comedy's 700-pound goal-kicker was no laughing matter. Gus had to be fitted for a turtleneck sweater and a football jersey which would go around his 62-inch waist. He was also issued a satin benchwarmer, and a helmet with holes for his protruding ears.

MONSIEUR VERDOUX

Charles Chaplin, Martha Raye, Isobel Elsom

Your enthusiastic response to our festival of Chaplin films prompts this tricky Halloween treat.

Charlie plays Henri Verdoux, alias Varnay, Bonheur and Floray, a French dandy with a fatal fascination for wealthy middle-aged women. He meets, marries and murders them.

One wife, however, is not easily disposed of. Annabella (Martha Raye) survives Verdoux's various attempts to make himself a widower. The payoff comes when she turns up unexpectedly at his bigamous wedding to yet another grande dame.

Orson Welles gave Chaplin the idea for this offbeat comedy, which at bottom is a statement about the ironies of life.

Tuck Everlasting

Fred A. Keller, James McGuire, Paul Flessa, Margaret Chamberlain

Even immortality isn't problem-free!

After the Tuck family discovers a stream which makes them invulnerable to pain, aging, and death, they are forced to hide away from the world to guard their secret. A young girl (Margaret Chamberlain) chances on the stream, and joins forces with the villainous Man In The Yellow Suit (James McGuire), who wants to exploit the magic water for profit.

This film is based on an award-winning novel by Natalie Babbitt.

ADVENTURE AND EXCITEMENT ENLIVEN JIMINY'S MOVIES

JIMINY CRICKET THEATRE

Youngsters who dream of adventure will relish the films on "Jiminy Cricket Theatre" this month. A new pair premieres every other Sunday, then plays for two weeks.

A spectacular underwater chase highlights "Mystery Island," an Australian film premiering October 7. Two boys set off a chain of events that lead to a strange island, a cantankerous hermit, a deserted lighthouse and an international counterfeit ring.

Then, on Degraess Street "Pete Takes a Chance." Looking for a fast buck, he spends all his and Lisa's money on raffle tickets.

HACKSAW

Tab Hunter, Susan Bracken,
George Barrows, Russ McCubbin

Come ride along as a Canadian cowboy turns a wild stallion into a partner and friend.

Tim Andrews (Tab Hunter) captures the horse in the Canadian Rockies, and names him Hacksaw. After winning his trust and teaching him to pull in harness, Tim enters Hacksaw in the famous Calgary Stampede chuck wagon race. But a rival cowboy (Russ McCubbin) provokes a fight in which Hacksaw is injured. Convinced that his horse can still win, Tim races against time to get him to the starting line. From there, it's up to Hacksaw.

Academy Award-winning producer-director Larry Lansburgh shot the film's climactic scenes in Alberta, Canada, during the annual Calgary Stampede there.

A TIGER WALKS

Brian Keith, Vera Miles,
Pamela Franklin

We all believe in being kind to animals. But what if the beast in question were a 400-pound Bengal tiger, on the prowl in your neighborhood?

When a circus carnival's tiger truck breaks down and the big male, Rajah, escapes, the townspeople order the sheriff (Brian Keith) to destroy the beast.

But the sheriff's 12-year-old daughter (Pamela

Rajah

Franklin), taught by her father that "justice for all" applies even to wild animals, launches a "Save the Tiger" campaign.

After riding bareback on a 550-pound lion for an earlier film, Pamela Franklin had no trouble working with this picture's feline star. But she preferred cuddling her tiny co-stars—the two-day-old tiger cubs who appear as Rajah's offspring.

Sticky My Fingers, Fleet My Feet

Charles Durning, John Lahr

Childish—that's how one of the wives describes the middle-aged football fanatics who live for their weekend touch football game.

Catching a pass means more to the doctor, lawyer, accountant and other professionals of this team than any triumph in their field. And because they've aged together, they can sustain the illusion that their hard-earned touchdowns are the stuff of pigskin legend.

But what happens to their fantasies when a light-footed teenager joins the game one Sunday?

A New Yorker magazine story by Gene Wilson was the source of this film, which playfully reveals its subjects' foibles.

SON OF FLUBBER

Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn, Tommy Kirk

Fred MacMurray pilots his flubbergassed flivver

Here's an invention that's a gas—flubbergas, to be exact.

It's the creation of absent-minded professor Ned Brainard (Fred MacMurray) who, in setting out to make rain, generates an anti-gravity vapor instead.

Flubbergas is powerful, as he soon discovers. One experiment with it breaks all the glass in town. Another blows his wife's former beau into a chicken coop. But the professor is a soaring success at the big football game, where flubbergas-inflated uniforms add buoyancy to the school spirit.

During the course of this oddball odyssey, Prof. Brainard clashes with covetous Madison Avenue types. He also returns to his lab to perfect another invention which produces a torrent of laughs.

DISCOVER A CLUE TO THIS SERIES' POPULARITY!

Our own programming "sleuths" report that Tom (Andrew Sabiston) and Ann (Marnie McPhail) Edison have a growing contingent of younger-set fans. It's no mystery why. They bring a lot of exuberance to their parts as teenage twin detectives who use science to solve mysteries and bail their little "bother" Paul (Sunny Thrasher) out of trouble. They're continuing their roles in 13 new episodes.

Without realizing its value, Paul pinches a rare penny from Tom in "A Penny Saved" (starting Oc-

In "Ghosts for Sale—Cheap!" (beginning October 20), Paul bets he can spend the night in a "haunted" house, then coerces Tom and Ann into staying with him. As twilight deepens, so do their suspicions that someone—or something—is in the mansion with them.

Animated explanations of pertinent scientific facts conclude each episode.

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Subscriber,

This month we're bringing you a very special movie entitled "Love Leads the Way." It's the true story of Morris Frank, a blind man whose bold efforts helped introduce Seeing Eye dogs to the U.S.

I remember when this project was approved. Peggy Christianson, vice president in charge of program development, told me the good news. She was very excited because she'd been closely involved with the idea and really believed in it. As she related the basic plot to me, my enthusiasm was awakened too.

I know how much you love the films which bear Walt Disney's personal touch, and this one reflects the same qualities of warmth, courage and caring. Don't miss it.

I've really enjoyed the drawings and the "Pets & Pals" photos you're sending. They are all truly delightful, and we try to use as many of them as possible.

Keep up the good work, and keep in touch!

Best regards,

Linda

YOUNG FANS SALUTE THEIR FAVORITE SHOWS

I watch "The Mickey Mouse Club" every day. I really enjoy "Spin and Marty." What happened to them? If they had sons that look like them, could you have a new "Spin and Marty" maybe?

Terri Pittman
Canyon Country, CA

Tim Considine (Spin), has many professional acting credits to his name, including the popular television series, "My Three Sons." David Stollery (Marty), is an assistant chief designer for General Motors.

I'm 14. When we first got The Disney Channel I thought it was just for little children. But after I watched a few of the shows, I began to like it. Now I know more about animals than anyone in my school. I enjoy watching "EPCOT Magazine," seeing my favorite stars like Kevin Corcoran and Hayley Mills, and hearing my favorite music while watching fascinating cartoons.

Elizabeth Palmer

SUBSCRIBER SUGGESTIONS

Once again you've come up with a real winner in "DTV." I'm thrilled that my children can enjoy music videos of some of their favorite songs without all the negatives found on other rock video programs.

However, I have two suggestions about the scheduling of DTV, which is confusing for children to follow right now. Could you provide a list of its playdates and times? Also, would it be possible to schedule more segments in the late afternoon or early evening hours when younger children can see it more easily?

Nancy L. Tanner
Suffern, NY

I spoke with Chris La Valle, our manager of program scheduling, about your suggestions. "DTV" is usually scheduled between films because of its format and length. Although we are unable to list dates for it in the "Monthly Magic" section, play times are indicated in the listings on the days when it appears. We're giving the show a little additional exposure on weekends when youngsters are at home.

Regarding the letter from Deborah Matlock (July, 1984) requesting help finding a recording of "The Ugly Bug Ball" from "Summer Magic," may I suggest that she write: Pickwick International Inc. (GB) Ltd., The Hyde Industrial Estate, The Hyde, London NW9 6JU for information about their album called "40 Walt Disney Originals," (# PLD 8010). The song is on it.

FAMILIES LOVE SONNY

We like watching Sonny Melendrez on "You and Me, Kid." He's taught us so much, and given us some great ideas. It's the kind of show that brings a family together, and gives us just a little more that we can share. I only wish there were more shows like it.

☐ HANS BRINKER OR THE SILVER SKATES

Rony Zeander, Carin Rossby
Courage and endurance are all young Hans has as he races against time to save his impoverished family. This adaptation of Mary Mapes Dodge's classic book was shot in the Netherlands and Sweden.

☐ Jungle Cat

A Walt Disney True-Life Adventure
Survival is the name of the game for the South American jaguar, and you've never seen it played more gracefully—and often humorously—than in this insightful film about the habits and habitats of these beautiful jungle cats.

☐ DAVY CROCKETT KING OF THE WILD FRONTIER

Fess Parker, Buddy Ebsen
When it was first released, this rousing saga of the legendary frontiersman put a coonskin cap on young 'uns' heads and a rousing ballad on everyone's lips. Today it's winning a whole new generation of fans.

Exploring the Archives

Dave Smith, head of Walt Disney Archives, has the facts on all things Disney. Letters concerning the history of the company and its productions are handled by the Archives.

What are the names of Mickey Mouse's two nephews? I remember seeing them but I can't recall their names. I've challenged my uncle for the answer, and I sure would like to catch him on this one!—C.A., Santa Rosa, Calif.

Mickey Mouse's nephews are Morty and Ferdie.

Didn't Walt Disney say that he disliked making sequels? Yet there have been many Disney film sequels.

DISNEY CHANNEL TRIVIA

With the premiere of "The Wonderful World of Disney" teleseries on The Disney Channel this month, let's look at some interesting facts about its history: ...The first show, "What Is Disneyland?/A Tribute to Mickey Mouse," aired on October 27, 1954, on ABC.

... "Operation Undersea" depicted behind-the-scenes work on "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." It won the Emmy for best individual show of the year.

... Walt Disney personally hosted the weekly shows until his death in 1966. Thereafter, no on-camera host was used.

... The major hit of the opening season was the three-part show on "Davy Crockett," one of TV's first mini-series.

... The series was originally called "Disneyland," with each program based on one of four realms—Fantasyland, Frontierland, Tomorrowland and Adventureland.

For the first four years, "Disneyland" aired on Wednesday nights. Then it

... Even though the earlier shows were telecast in black and white, Walt Disney had the foresight to produce most of them in color.

Tom Tryon stars as John Slaughter moved to Friday nights in 1958, changing its title to "Walt Disney Presents."

... In 1960 there was a move to Sunday nights, and a year later a big change: to NBC and a new title, "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color," signifying the switch to color. There were three more title changes—"Wonderful World of Disney," "Disney's Wonderful World," and "Walt Disney"—and eventually a move to CBS before it left the air after 29 seasons as the longest-running prime time series.

... The Disney series presented the first stereophonic TV program (in conjunction with radio stations): "The Peter Tchaikovsky Story" in 1959.

... The longest-running Disney mini-series was the "Tales of Texas John Slaughter," which went on for 17 episodes.

LEARNING TO TRUST

Trust is a crucial role in the relationship between Morris Frank, the character in "Love Leads the Way" and the Buddy. Actor Timothy Allen plays Morris Frank, and he hesitated trusting his partner, Pilot! It's just as in everyday life. After you watch the movie, try the following exercise—they'll make you laugh—but it will highlight and reinforce a lesson: it takes trust to keep a relationship strong.

TRUST TESTS:

1. Take turns wearing a blindfold and allowing another family member to lead you through your house or yard, giving minimal directions along the way.
2. Pair up. Have your partner stand behind you and put his arms around your waist. On the count of three, go limp, trusting your partner to hold you up. Reverse the procedure.

Blast Off at Halloween with a Spaceship Box Costume

MATERIALS NEEDED: Variety of cardboard boxes and cartons, scissors or a matte knife, white glue, paper brads, string, paint and brushes (optional), measuring tape or ruler, pencils and markers.

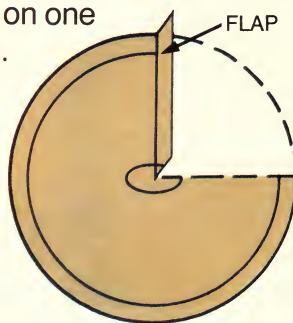

1 Flatten a very big box, and cut into two equal pieces. On each piece draw large circles "A" and "B." Draw a circle 4 inches inside each of the large circles. Draw a small oval in the center of circle "A" for your head to go through. Draw a larger circle in the center of circle "B" for your body to go through.

LARGE CIRCLE

2 Cut a wedge from each circle as shown. Leave a flap on one side.

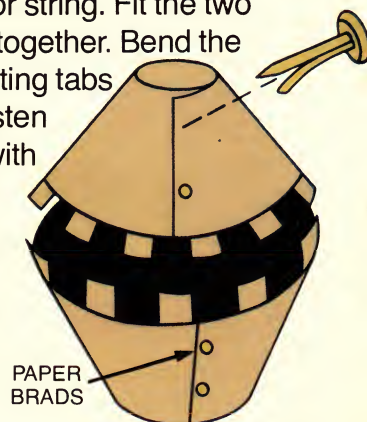

A & B

3 Cut out the spaces for your head and body. Mark 12 "A" tabs along the outer edge of circle "A" and cut out around them. Do the same on circle "B" making sure that the "B" tabs alternate with the "A" tabs.

A & B

4 Fold the circles into cones. Secure the flaps with paper brads or string. Fit the two cones together. Bend the alternating tabs and fasten them with paper brads.

5 Slip into your spaceship. Ask for help marking and cutting circles for your arms to stick out.

6 Paint your spaceship costume. Add mailing tubes or coat hangers to look like telescopes and antennas.

Spook Your Pals with a Haunted Maze

1 Collect a variety of boxes. Make a twisting, turning tunnel by opening the ends of some and placing them in a row. Stack others high enough to walk between and cover with sheets or cardboard "roofs."

2 Make the inside of the maze spooky. Hang threads to feel like spider webs. Put squishy, damp sponges and rubber gloves stuffed with sand where people will crawl over them. Cut holes in the tunnel roof, tape scary pictures over the holes looking in. Light the pictures with flashlights. For the scariest effect, it should be daaaaaark in there!

3 Tape strange noises to play nearby while your friends go through the tunnel.

YOU'LL GET A KICK OUT OF GUS'S Football Fever GAME!

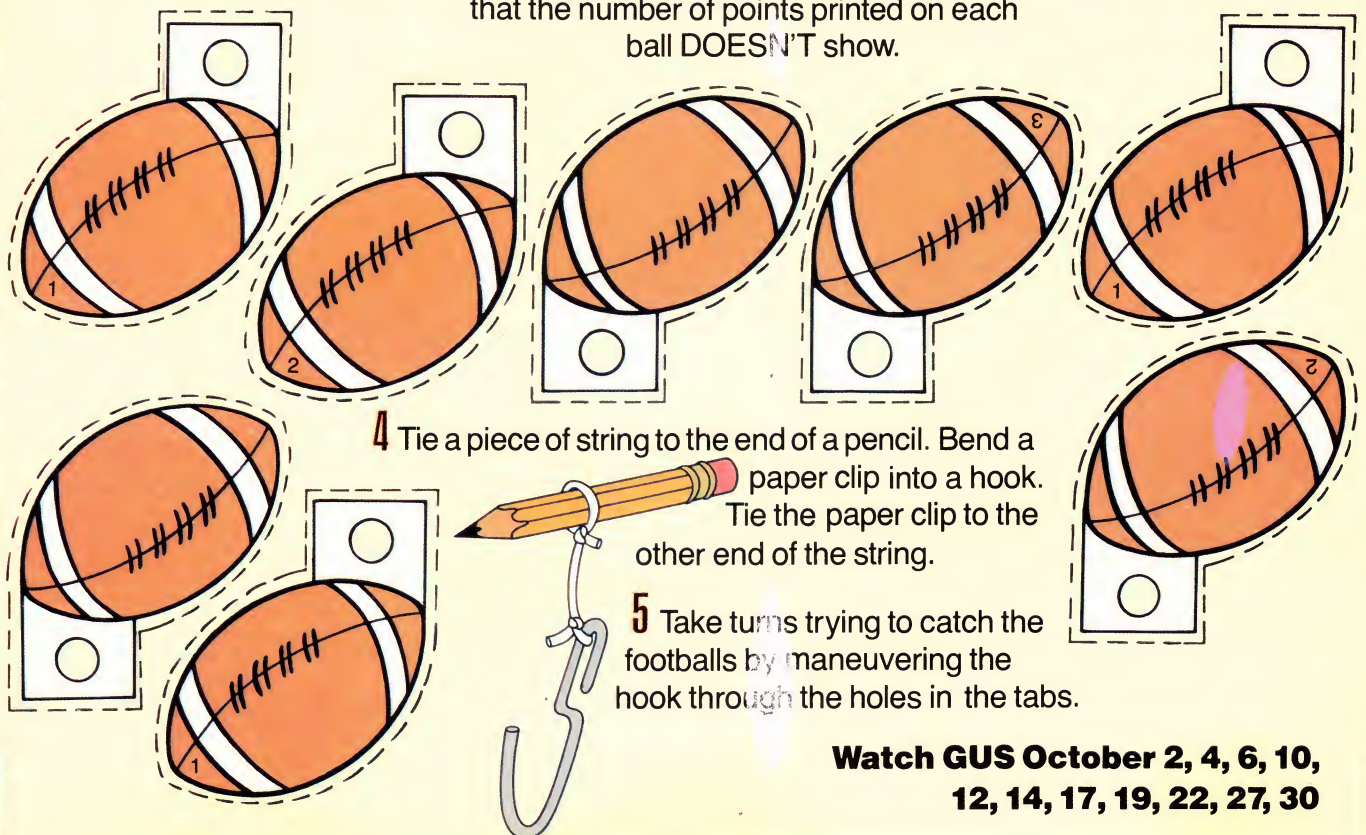

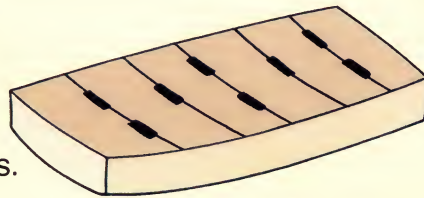

Here's a nifty football game to play at half time or anytime! Any number of players can participate. Take turns "catching" the footballs and totalling the points printed on them. (Some footballs have no points printed on them.) The player with the most points wins the game.

YOU NEED: A shoebox lid, pencil, paper clip, string, glue and a piece of light cardboard.

DIRECTIONS:

- 1 Measure the shoebox lid and make marks at even intervals to look like yard and goal lines.
- 2 Make several 1-inch slits lengthwise along each line.
- 3 Cut out the footballs below and glue them onto lightweight cardboard (like a file folder). Punch holes where indicated on the tabs. Put the footballs into the slits on the shoebox lid so that the number of points printed on each ball DOESN'T show.

- 4 Tie a piece of string to the end of a pencil. Bend a paper clip into a hook. Tie the paper clip to the other end of the string.
- 5 Take turns trying to catch the footballs by maneuvering the hook through the holes in the tabs.

"THE HAPPIEST MILLIONAIRE, a zinging, heel-thumping musical made of the magical stuff of 'Mary Poppins'!"
